the true story of fala was written by margaret daisy suckley for her close friend and distant cousin franklin delano roosevelt celebrating the loveable scotty dog she gave the president the dog that became fdr s constant companion at the white house at press conferences during meetings with ambassadors and heads of state at home in hyde park new york on the yacht potomac and even aboard the hms prince of wales when fdr had his first historic and highly secret meeting at sea with winston churchill during world war two fala was the most famous dog of his time and maybe the most famous dog in all of american history this classic children s book about a dog and his president has been reissued by wilderstein preservation and black dome press with a new foreword by j winthrop aldrich founding board president of wilderstein preservation and with new photographs and background information on author daisy suckley but with all the old photographs and drawings and the style and design of the original 1942 children s classic that has entertained generations this is the story of the vagabond canines that hopped on railroads across the united states often becoming celebrities and national heroes chapters introduce canines like owney guardian of the railway mail service fala fdr s beloved dog and train companion annie the colorado railway ambassador the k9 patrols who watch over the tracks and many more as railroads were changing america these raildogs were changing the people who lived and worked in rail communities for the dogs of the railways home became the hearts of the people of the railroad more than the dogs themselves this book is about the human animal relationship between a dog and a community and moments in history where that relationship symbolized the quest for home and belonging a search that humans often share with our canine travelers one of those drunken dirty derelicts you saw sleeping under a bridge could have been my brother before you turn away and pretend he is invisible take a second if you will to look at him through my eyes he was a golden child full of energy hope enthusiasm for life filled with sunshine and laughter my brother was ten years older than i and from the very first he was my champion and hero i loved him unconditionally he and his entire generation were called upon to set aside their hopes and dreams to fight a war in far off lands with the express purpose of battling injustice and totalitarianism and to preserve the american dream it is because of the sacrifices of those selfless men and women we are still living in democracy with all that entails when he returned from the war the laughter and the sunshine were gone back then they called it combat fatigue and today it is referred to as ptsd it doesn t matter what you call it the results are the same this is his story a woman reborn fala awakes in a world she doesn t recognize in a body that s not her own and with strange unknown abilities her new world surrounds her with animal shifters of every species and makes her realize that everything she thought she knew as a human was not as it seemed a man to protect her as commander of the elite protectors of mhyrium it is mikeal s responsibility to watch over the new raven citizen fala is a mystery that soon becomes an obsession as he teaches her every benefit shifters have to offer love beyond worlds fala couldn t look away he was beautiful his wet black and silver hair dripped on his broad shoulders and hairless chiseled chest his abs were solid muscle and his biceps bulged of their own accord at the slight bent of his elbow his long legs and thighs were big muscular and smooth fala swallowed hard she felt a rush of heat in her core as she looked at him debating whether to run or strip mikeal walked toward her slowly looking like a predator who had found his prey he needed fala with all the dark intensity of his being she didn t move as he came to within inches of her and placed his hands on each side of her neck he looked into her eyes for any possible signs of rejection but saw only the reflection of his own need
